

Abstract of the Disclosure

- Apparatuses, systems, and methods are provided for processing data. In one
- 5 method embodiment, the method includes defining a number of color channels, each channel to transfer a particular color element of a stream of color type pixel data. The method can also include identifying monochrome type pixel data within a data stream and allocating a color channel to transfer the identified monochrome type pixel data.